Enquiry regarding Pre- per- and postgraduate education.

The AEMH has a major interest in medical education and pre- and postgraduate training of doctors from several points of view.

As the organisation for senior hospital physicians we are representing the professional leaders of healthcare in the member countries in Europe with the experience which is the prerequisite to guarantee knowledge on how the profession as doctor shall develop for the future.

For the AEMH it is important that each member country has the right dimension of their medical education to guarantee sufficient but not too many doctors for healthcare as well as the medical industry.
